Mike Top Contributor Photography 5.0 out of 5 stars I upgraded from the companion 3 series II speakers. Ive had the Comp 3s since they came out and they are still being used in my garage. Also I will agree with George that if your computer doesnt recognize the speakers you fix it by unplugging and plugging it back in. I cant complain about anything with bose. Everything audio I buy their stuff. I had an old pair of headphones that the ear pads wore out after about 5yrs. I call in to customer service and was asking how I get replacement pads. They were unbelievable, they sent me brand new headphones and all I had to do was send the old ones back. They could have sent me new pads but replacing the entire headset was above and beyond. Sure people complain about Bose on being overpriced etc. But when you get the quality they offer and them replacing products its well worth it. Outshines about any 2.1 system i have owned. Remarkable surround simulation. Normally i find Bose a little over priced for the features, and yes, the input options are limited, that being said, the sound is envelopes you like you just stepped into a listening booth. Speaker placement is very important for the proper surround sound stage. Hope they still make something as good in case these ever fail. The bass is absolutely fantastic, almost too much bass, I have to keep it pretty low on the dial. These are the best computer speakers I've ever heard by far; the other Bose computer speakers, and Logitech's are not even close. The sound quality is superior in every way and looks so damn cool on my desk. Bose, you outdid yourself. <http://www.urbantv.fr/userfiles/columbus-manual-pdf.xml>

Prior to purchasing this Bose speaker system I read all the reviews, some a bit long winded and managed to decipher the info I needed. This system was a bit more money than I wanted to spend, however it appeared to be the best for the price range. When the system first arrived and I installed it, I immediately realized it was one of the easiest installations in any sophisticated sound system I have installed. I tried a couple of my favorite songs and must admit it did not seem to reflect what the reviews implied sound fills a room with amazing life like quality. I came to conclusion sometimes reviews may be a bit figurative and everyone's perception may be a bit different and was simply happy to have new system in play. Later I was streaming ambient music to relax too and was absolutely astonished to hear each sound in crystal clear form. My kitten would dash to the window each time a bird call would emerge from the streaming music and once she even was awakened from her catnap to seek the bird she thought was in immediate vicinity. I am so happy with Bose system and it may be true there are much more expensive units out there that will produce a better sound experience, but for the price the Bose system was well worth every dollar spent. This is by far a remarkable sound system. No issues so far. I have had no issues with any of the components. I had an older version of Bose computer speakers that would pop very loudly when I would change the volume using the dial, but this set has not has that issue at all. Make sure the left and right speakers have an unobstructed placement for best results. Music, movies, and games sound great. These do a good job of making it sound like audio is coming from every direction, especially in games. Be aware that these are USB speakers, and connect to the computer via USB, so they will not use your computer's sound card. If you're OK with that, you can disable the computer sound card like I did.

Our current Bose Wavemate, Bose Acoustimass, and multiple sets of headphones were just joined with a new Companion 5 system for our new office and it sounds outstanding with all of the media types that my Mac can toss it. I edit sound with Adobe Audition and Apple Logic and edit movie footage in Adobe Premiere Pro and Apples Final Cut Studio X and natural sound is mandatory. The Bose C5 system gives me just the right balance and clarity to keep my mix and mastering efforts on the right track. One more thing that I learned is that you really do need to plug them directly into the system, or into a very hi powered USB switch or you will see them come and go so far as your system is concerned. My friend owned one of these and I finally got around to owning these speakers for my own computer and man they DO NOT disappoint. If you want to turn your home or office into a concert hall, these speakers are a way to go. Easy to set up, needs a little bit of room if you have multiple speakers but not too much moving. Very well worth the purchase for those of you who can afford it. I'll start off by stating the obvious, if you're looking at any Bose product be ready to spend some serious coin. The sound quality these speakers produce is phenomenal for the size, and almost everybody who's ever heard them has asked me questions about it. If you're planning on having a house party, these won't disappoint. I've had these playing all night with some bass heavy songs from Lil Uzi, Kendrick Lamar, Dr. Dre, etc. Zero distortion at nearly any volume level. I'll have more problems with items shaking off my desk before I experience any sound issues at high levels, and I don't think I've ever had them past 75%. These are also great for other genres with more mids and highs, such as Rock. Listening to Dream On Aerosmith, the vocals sound great and clear, all of the instruments are present and the bass isn't too heavy.

I use them with a Macbook Pro, the USB connection is pretty straight forward and quick to use no drivers to install. I've also hooked up an AUX cord to the Control Pod, that works well too. If there is anything I'd complain about these speakers, it would be the lack of bluetooth connectivity. Otherwise this is probably the most solid set of computer speakers on the market, in terms of sound quality, bass, small size and durability. I know people who've purchased these speakers almost 10 years ago, and they still work. Surprisingly they don't look outdated like you'd expect, they just lack some more modern features like bluetooth or USB-C. If you're looking for something loud, sleek and that'll last forever, skip all of the other options out there and save up for these. This system will hold its value very well just like an Apple product. Sorry, we failed to record your vote. Please try again The build quality of the system alone is a marvel in a world of designed obsolescence. The sound quality is flawless at low to moderate volumes, although at high volumes you will be slightly disappointed. The system makes you feel like you're listening to 5.1 surround. With all of this said, I still think the price is ridiculously high. Sorry, we failed to record your vote. Please try again Sometimes too much for the neighbors I often turn off the bass and it still sounds great. I haven't heard a better sound system. The price was also reasonable. Sorry, we failed to record your vote. Please try again I reasoned that if I'm replacing a sound system I need top notch sound. The Companion 5 is all that and more. I am more often in front of my computer so this where I need quality. They sound good, look good and don't hog my space, I'm very happy. Sorry, we failed to record your vote. Please try again I got this for a gaming computer that I set up and had built from the CPU up. I highly recommend these speakers.

If you get nervous because there is no mention of Windows 8 like I did in the set up guide, rest assured, they are supported and sound FANTASTIC. Sorry, we failed to record your vote. Bose systems are designed to be set up by the average user, and the Companion 3 is no different. You'll need one additional cable, and the rest of the system will work with your television right out of the box. Plug the module power cord into a wall outlet or power strip. The plug is specific to the pod as it will only fit into one jack on the module. Place the speakers, one on either side of the television. Plug one end of the computer input cable into the other end of the adapter cable. Plug the other end of the computer input cable into the Input from computer jack on the back of the device.
